Tinkerbell movie quotes

Quotes from the 1983 movie Scarface Devout fans of the legendary gangster film will always rate quotes from the infamous protagonist, Tony Montana, as the best among the category of movie quotes. How many do you know? Test your memory skills with this collection of the best scarface quotes. I always tell the truth. Even when I'm lying. Every day above ground is a good day. In this country, you have to make money first. Then when you get the money, you get the power. Then when you get power, you get women. Tony Montana: Me, I want what's coming to me. Manny: Oh, well... What's in store for you? Tony Montana: The world, Chico, and everything in it. Do you want to waste my time? ok. I'm calling my lawyer. He's the best lawyer in Miami. He's such a good lawyer, you'll be working in Alaska by tomorrow morning. So dress warm. Why not try stickin jou head up jour donkeys - see if it suits. Say good night to the bad guy. Dat chick he's with-- she loves me. I like you, Tony. There's no lying in you. Amigo, the only thing in this world that gives orders is balls. Balls. Do you have that? So you want to dance, Frank, or do you want to sit here and have a heart attack? I have ears, you know. I hear things. Updated January 12, 2021, we talk a lot every day about what we want and what we will do. I want to pet the cat. I want to buy a house for my parents. I don't want to be alone anymore. I'll love you no matter what. I'll work harder in the future. It's easy to make plans for the future. And we make decisions all the time. Consider that by the second week of February, the full 80% of resolutions fail. And that the vast majority of relationships (plus many marriages) end up as well as breakups or divorce. The best intentions and the best laid plans generally speak end in failure. No one intended to lie In general, people make these kinds of promises or resolutions with the best intentions. They don't want to fail; if anything, they are desperate to be right, improve and make their friends and family happy. So even if the resolution fails, when they say them, it's far from a lie. People often speak without thinking. They say what comes to mind, but without thinking. And what usually comes to mind is a wishful thinking – an ideal result, not what is possible and practical. It is tempting to fantasize about a beautiful and perfect future: a good romantic relationship, approval and respect for parents and a successful career. But how to get what you want is not always clear to you the moment you say it. It's hard to see beyond a simple, idealized image. The challenges you may come across, the disappointments and sadness you may face—none of it is anywhere to be seen in daydreaming. Wish-goers often end in disappointment The problem is this one. Wish-goers and fantasies end in disappointment only if you don't pass. You have disappointed your friends, family, boss and –most importantly – yourself. It can really take a toll on your own psyche and a sense of self-worth. On a personal level you will have so many unrealized dreams and goals. This is an incredibly common situation for people everywhere. As a teenager, you may have dreamed of what your life would be like as an adult: happily married and with a successful high-earning career until you were 25. But these are two seriously challenging goals that take planning and effort. Many find themselves alone and in the blind right — not their careers — wondering where they went wrong. On an interpersonal level, making empty promises is harmful and detrimental to relationships. Friendship and healthy family relationships are built on trust. People who want to be your friends say their word and expect you to keep going. If you tell your friends you'll be there for them, but never ring the phone, they'll get hurt and won't want to hang out anymore. The same applies to family or even professional relationships. You might find it tempting to tell your boss that you're going to finish a big project by the end of the week, not thinking if it's convincing. If you can't complete a task within the time frame you set, it's not easy to regain your boss's trust. Keep what you want to yourselfIt is vital to be clear about what you want. Notice when people around you tend to say I want ____ and I don't want _____. Children are very inclined to say all their wishes out loud, partly because they do not have the independence and resources to get it themselves. For this reason, children and young people are often vague about what they want in the future. They have a lot of desires without a concrete plan on how to get them. This is one of the challenges of an adult. As you gain the practical ability to provide for yourself, and as you learn from your mistakes, it's increasingly important to be clear about how you plan to get what you want. Practice visualizing plans to achieve your goals. For example, you may want a pet - everyone shares pictures of their dogs and cats on Instagram! But before you go out to house one in a shelter, make sure you visualize all the things you need to do to take care of your pet. Pet ownership includes: cleaning after it, home training, taking it to the vet, walking, buying food and making sure it gets a lot of stimulation and exercise. If you want or need a car, think about how much you need to save to buy a car, cleaning and maintenance costs, how to pay for regular car insurance, parking costs, etc. If you really want something, don't just say it. Plan it and do it. Create conditions that make what you want inevitable. Do the little things consistently and make it a habit. You will amaze yourself and your friends if you are constantly working to achieve your Read more about how to follow your goals here: Why they can be the only 8% of people who reach the goal every timelt is easy to make or break promises. Separate yourself from others by being trustworthy, thoughtful and thoughtful. Align your intentions with planning and action, and you'll find that you're happier with yourself and that your connections are enriched. Featured photo: Unsplash via unsplash.com The favorite children's book of all time, Antoine de Saint-Exupéry's Little Prince was turned into a beautifully animated film - and was finally released. Inspirational lessons, a timeless story and beautiful quotes from the little prince make this the perfect choice for an on-screen adaptation. At one time or another, your parents or loved one read you this book when you were a child, and then you picked it up later in life, realizing how incredibly important this little book really is. If it's been a while since you read the story, I would suggest brushing it before watching the movie, since it's all about the act of growing up and never forgetting what it's like to be a curious and creative kid. As many fans have on witness, this film was due for release in March 2016, but Paramount kicked it off their release schedule. Luckily, Netflix came to our aid, picking up the film and planning a new release on August 5th. Now that it's just around the corner, I thought I'd round up some of the best, and my personal favorite quotes from this exceptional story. Whether as a child you found solace in The Little Prince, or inspiration as an adult, it's a beautiful story for everyone to learn from. Personally, I can't wait to watch this movie and I'm probably (definitely) crying all the tears this coming weekend, and if you're in the same boat, here are 18 of the little prince's most beautiful quotes:1. And now here is my secret, a very simple secret: Only with the heart can be seen correctly; What matters is invisible to the eye. 2. It is much more difficult to judge oneself than to judge others. If you manage to judge yourself correctly, then you are indeed a man of true wisdom. 3. All adults were once children... but only a few remember it. 4. The time you have wasted for your rose makes your rose so important. 5. I am who I am and I need to be. 6. The most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen or touched, they feel with their heart. 7. All men have stars, but these are not the same things for different people. For some, who are travelers, the stars are guides. For others, they are nothing more than little lights in the sky. For others who are scholars, they are problems... But all these stars are silent. Only you-you'll have stars like no other. 8. No one is ever satisfied with where he is. 9. One day, I watched the sun set forty-four times..... you know... When someone is so terribly sad, a man loves sunsets. 10. The people you live in, The little prince said, grow five thousand roses in one garden... Still, they don't find what they're looking for... And yet, what they're looking for could be found in one rose. 11. It's such a mysterious place, a land of tears. 12. You become responsible, forever, for what you have tamed. 13. But the conceited man did not hear him. Cocky people never hear anything but praise. 14. Well, I have to endure the presence of several caterpillars if I want to get acquainted with butterflies. 15. What is most important are simple pleasures so abundant that we can all enjoy them... Happiness does not lie in the objects we gather around us. To find him, all we have to do is open our eyes. 16. Where are the people? the little prince finally continued. It's a little lonely in the desert... It's lonely when you're among men, the snake said. 17. A pile of rocks ceases to be a pile of rocks at a moment when one man is thinking about the press, carrying inside him a picture of the cathedral. 18. But the eyes are blind. A man must look with his heart.
